

B2B:Personnel

Easily monitor changes to teaching and non-teaching staff

Having a single system that monitors changes and updates to teaching and non-teaching staff across your authority can significantly save administration time. B2B:Personnel provides authorised users with secure access to accurate and timely information through a securely encrypted, industry standard data transmission system.

Automatic data exchanges, ensure that changes to staff details, qualifications, pay or allowances are immediately reflected in both the local authority and school information management systems. It provides flexibility and additional controls to allow incoming data from schools with record changes to staff details to be verified in a separate screen before being accepted and stored.

Key Benefits

- Share information: schools and local authorities can transfer data securely, with current and accurate information easily accessible to those who need it, when they need it.
- Reduce administration: school staff can manage and update their own information, taking away the need for you to re-enter data and reducing the risk of errors.
- Reduce costs: increases efficiency and productivity by eliminating the need for multiple databases.
