

Exclusions

An early indication of change to a child's circumstances

Exclusion from school can be an early indication of changes to a child's circumstance. Transferring exclusion data automatically into your information system will allow at risk children or interventions to be effectively monitored.

Simplifying the management complexity and administrative burden of exclusions, student information can be easily transferred into Capita One via B2B: Student.

This reduces the amount of paperwork and time spent on other administrative tasks and ensures the authority always has access to accurate information on excluded students.

Providing a list of alternative education arrangements for those that have received fixed term or permanent exclusion saves time and reduces impact on the child. Action taken by practitioners to re-integrate a pupil into the classroom can be recorded and shared along with information on any alternative educational support.

Key Benefits

- Share information: exclusion data can be instantly transferred from a school's MIS system into One Exclusions using B2B:Student.
- Extend teamwork: action taken by practitioners to reintegrate a student into the classroom can be recorded and shared.
- Target intervention: view interim support being provided for the student's continued learning by accessing complete information including the exclusion circumstance.
- Improve outcomes: monitor the progress and effectiveness of alternative education for an excluded student.
- Reduce costs: simplify the management of cost related to supporting excluded students.
